MBH Archers Are Among The Best In The World

Once again, Missouri Bow Hunters went to a major tournament and made a statement, this time at the World Archery Festival in Las Vegas. Competing against the best archers from around the world, MBH was represented by more than twenty-five archers from every part of the state, and across a variety of age groups and shooting styles.

Richard Potter, kept us glued to YouTube watching the Shoot Off, and bringing a home 9th place finish.

Nick Younger and Luke Mann had 1st and 2nd all sewn up for the Cub Male Freestyle division.

The indoor tournament season has no shortage of prestigious tournaments. The season kicks off with Presley's Midwest Open in December, the Iowa Pro-Am and Kansas City Shoot Out in January, followed closely by the World Archery Festival and Midwest Sectionals in February. In all of these tournaments, shooters from Missouri appear in the top ten percent over and over again.

March is no different, with the State Indoor the 8th and 9th, followed the very next weekend with Indoor Nationals in Louisville.

Registrations for the State Indoor Championship in Linn are coming in daily. At this writing, we are at the halfway point for both the 9 am and noon line times on Saturday. We are on track to pass the number of individual shooters from last year, and could, quite possibly have a completely "full house."

These numbers are due in part to our younger archers. We already have 77 cubs, youth and young adults registered for the tournament, which is a little more than half of the total number of registrations we've gotten in so far. The Team Shoot is no different. Both the 3 pm and 6 pm lines are filling fast. The later line time only has 11 open spots left.

I would urge everyone planning on coming to the tournament to register now, later entries may not guarantee you a preferred line time.

A message from your President

For those of you who don't know me, my name is Jeff Friedmann, and I will be the interim President through the end of this year. Jason, because of work commitments felt it was better for MBH if he resigned. He isn't leaving MBH but can't dedicate the time at this point in his life. Jason, thank you for the time and work you put into this organization and I look forward to working with you in the future!

Target season is fast upon us with the KC Shoot Out, and the Vegas Shoot just finishing. The Shoot Out had a record number of registered shooters this year. The Midwest Sectionals is being held at IBH the weekend of February 22nd of March 8th www.mobowhunters.org If you have some free time and can help out at the state indoor, any time you can give would be greatly appreciated. Remember, this is your Tournament and without your help we couldn't do it.

At the BofR meeting held the beginning of February, 3D was discussed. Julie Griggs is heading a committee to come up with a set of rules that should make everyone happy state wide and hopefully this will also help increase attendance at the state 3D. Till next month stay warm and shoot them in the middle!

Jeff

East Fork Rock'n Shots Club

January was all about getting back to basics for the EFA Rock'n Shots Club. Our JOAD members have been focused on improving their shots by learning the BEST method. BEST is short for Bio-mechanically Efficient Shooting Technique. This method, developed by National Coach for USA Archery, Kisik Lee includes approximately 10 steps to help shooters develop a repeatable shot sequence that maximizes energy, improves shot consistency and quality.

Shooters put this learning to the test at the Missouri Archery Association/JOAD State Championship tournament held in Moberly, MO at the end of January. EFA Rock'n Shots had 26 club members (adult and youth) participate in the tournament and 9 members received medals at the event.

For many, this was their first ever archery competition. Congrats to all that participated... Great job!!!

A Resurgence of Indoor Archery?

It appears to me that so far, the indoor season has turned out to be a better than expected. To look at the final totals of shooters across the nation, there seems to be a trend of higher attendance. Lets start with the local scene. Many local archery clubs have leagues and tournaments that have seen attendance this year that hasn't been there for years. What about the national level events? The Presley's Midwest Open, a tournament held in an outdoor store mind you, was completely sold out and reserved in merely minutes. What about the ISAA Iowa Pro Am? They set a record of their own with over 600 shooters! Think about that for a minute. That could easily be the 3rd largest indoor tournament in the nation. Moving on to the Lancaster Archery Classic, there was not only the highest attendance recorded for that event, but the organizers upped the level of presentation of the event. The live feed covered the event from start to finish and the improvements in the coverage and the range was astounding. The Kansas City Shootout also set a new attendance record. Word from the NFAA at the time I am writing this, there seems to be already a record pre-registration for the Vegas Shoot.

What is this telling us? Was it simply a product of the frigid temperatures and cabin fever? Or was it something more? Don't take me wrong, I definitely understand the feeling of being cooped up for the winter and wanting to get out and do something. But overall, I think there is beginning a resurgence of indoor archery. I think some of the more 3D oriented archers are starting to see some of the advantages of indoor archery. I cannot tell you how many people I have talked to this year that they are participating in their first indoor tournaments after years of 3D only participation. Is this a great thing? Absolutely! Any time we can get shooters to participate in multiple disciplines of shooting we are building the base of archery in general. In conclusion, let's continue this trend through Sectionals, State, and Nationals. Not only that, lets continue this cross-disciplinary shooting throughout the summer. I would love to see a substantial number of indoor shooters shooting in field and 3D events and 3D shooters shooting field. Shooting is shooting, my friends, and it's all for the good of archery. You never know, maybe you'll find out what I found out over the last couple years. I tried field and "FITA" style shooting over the last year and have found it to be my favorite style personally. You never know what you might be missing until you try it. I think some new found indoor shooters are starting to find this out this year. Until next time, go shoot some arrows!

NODAHO BOW HUNTERS, INC.

At this point, all I can say is WOW – the attendance at our January 11 & 12 tournament was fantastic! Thanks so much to those who came both near and far to make it such a success. Results are posted on our web site www.nodahobowhunters.com. Congratulations to Cub Release shooter Nick Younger for his perfect score of 300-60X on the NFAA 300 Round.

Lots of tournaments coming up – Vegas, State, Sectionals and Nationals, not to mention various local tournaments throughout the state. Sure helps beat the "winter blahs" and before we know it, it will be 3-D time again. Chris Morrow, Bill Brookshier, Curt Criger, Quinn Talbott, Tom "Big Bird" Ciak, Jenell Ciak and Rick Horn traveled to Moberly to attend the MAA state tournament on January 25. Coming home with first place finishes in their divisions were Rick Horn, Bill Brookshier, Jenell Ciak and Quinn Talbott (Rick & Jenell set new state records).

Third place honors went to Chris Morrow and Tom Ciak in their divisions. That same weekend Nodaho members Tim & Connie Randall, Larry Mincy, Jess Snyder, Brett Nelson and Alex Leonard attended the "Kansas City Shoot Out". Connie brought home a first place win and Tim a second place in their classes at the tournament.

Nodaho helped our local school several years ago both financially and fundamentally in getting a National Archery in the Schools program started in physical education classes. This year, after a plea from the P.E. teacher, member Bill Brookshier took it to the next level by offering NASP lessons at our indoor range. Assisted by other certified instructors when they can including Tom "Big Bird" Ciak, Max Medsker and Quinn Talbott, it gives those students who are really interested free lessons, individualized instruction and help with form, mental attitude and equipment. About fourteen students are bused to the site after school on Wednesdays.

According to one bus driver, the students are really excited about "archery day" and can't wait for the sessions each week. Bill is having fun, too, and is excited about the progress the students are making. Unlike some other sports, archery can be a life sport – in our own club we've seen young people "drop out" during their dating and college years only to take it up again later either in competition shooting or hunting. It also exposes students to archery who might not otherwise have the opportunity.

Congratulations to member Tyler Piveral, who shot his first NFAA 300 game in competition during a recent league night. His Dad took his hat, placed it on the target butt and members shot it full of holes – he said he would wear it with pride!

Hope to see you soon!

CONSERVATION COMMITTEE

The following is an article written by MDC's staff writer Jim Lowe and published on the MDC website. I thought it was very interesting and helps to explain the challenges the MDC faces to manage Missouri's deer herd.

Hunters checked 50,507 Deer during Missouri's archery deer season, bringing the state's overall deer harvest to 250,787. The archery deer harvest was the second-largest in Missouri's history, reflecting the continued growth in popularity of bowhunting. Top archery deer harvest counties were Jefferson, with 1,205 deer checked, St. Louis with 1,130, and Franklin with 1,018. Resource Scientist Jason Sumners says the overall decrease is in line with deer-harvest figures from other Midwestern states. "Over the course of about 15 years, we were able to apply the brakes to deer population growth," says Sumners. "Then came a perfect storm of conditions we had no way of anticipating."

Those unanticipated conditions were driven by a severe drought that began in 2012 and carried over into 2013. It caused the worst outbreak of hemorrhagic diseases – blue tongue and epizootic hemorrhagic disease, collectively referred to as HD – in recorded history. Those losses were deepened when the drought caused the smallest acorn crop since the department started keeping records in 1960. The lack of acorns forced deer to move more during the 2012 deer season, making it easier for hunters to find them and contributing to the second-largest deer harvest in Missouri history. Sumners says the Conservation Department's Regulations Committee will consider these factors, along with the many comments they have received from hunters, when drafting recommendations to the Conservation Commission regarding 2014-2015 deer-hunting regulations. The Commission approved deer season dates for the 2014-2015 season to provide hunters adequate notice, but season regulations may still be adjusted by the Conservation Commission. He says the remedy for the current dip in deer numbers is not as simple as it might seem at first glance.

"Missouri's deer population isn't evenly spread across the state or a county," he says. "Blanket, one-size-fits-all answers aren't necessarily the right solutions. But we want people to know that we are hearing their concerns and are committed to identifying ways to find the right balance."

Sumners says it is important to view the current situation from a broad historical perspective. It took 50 years of cooperation between the Conservation Department, landowners, and hunters to reach the point where Missouri's annual deer harvest topped 200,000 in 1995. It took another 10 years to achieve the balance of doe and buck harvest needed to stabilize deer numbers in parts of Missouri where deer had grown too numerous. Maintaining that stability in the face of weather extremes, disease outbreaks and annual harvest variations is a balancing act. Sumners also says it is important to keep this year's harvest in perspective.

"The average deer harvests of approximately 290,000 over the past 10 years have given us a lopsided view of what the annual harvest should be," he says. "We've seen dips and bumps in total harvest before and expect the ebb and flow will continue in the future. We are committed to continuing the science-informed management that has enabled successful management of a deer resource that supports 12,000 Missouri jobs and pumps $1 billion into our economy annually."

The Department evaluates season information each year and last year reduced unlimited antlerless permits in some counties. The management of white-tailed deer has always been both a biologically and socially complex issue, but management today is more challenging due to interrelated factors such as land use, ownership, hunter density, and human population levels. Today's research efforts allow the agency to forecast population changes and evaluate the impact of various regulation options on the deer population. Research, management, and public input will help the Department make more informed management decisions.

The Conservation Department plans to hold public meetings around the state this summer to gather input from hunters, wildlife watchers and others about the future of deer management in Missouri. Public input has always been and will continue to be an important part of the future of deer management.

News From The Stump....

By : Kathy Potter
NFAA Director- Missouri
potter.mbh@cvalley.net

Just got back from Vegas and what a trip! The week kicked off with a full one day session for all the State Directors. NFAA President Bruce Cull, provided a high-level overview of the financials then shared other general updates. Highlights included:

- Current NFAA Membership is 12,976 which is up over 1,000 from last year!
- The new field courses at NFAA HQ in Yankton, SD are now finished. Another grant has been received to build a concession stand and bathrooms on the field range grounds.
- The grand opening of the NFAA Museum will be just before the National Outdoor in Yankton.
- The indoor facility including the 90 meter range is now finished. The next project will be to add a loading dock, catwalk for filming and another Olympic outdoor range. Again this will be mostly funded through a grant from Easton.
- Leadership is currently meeting with World Archery to bid on the 2015 World Archery Youth Championships for 2015. If approved, the event will be held at the Yankton Complex.
- The NFAA is looking for ways to promote bow hunting more aggressively. All suggestions are appreciated
- The official meeting minutes should be on the NFAA website soon (www.nfaausa.com) but here are a few highlights:
- Take-down longbows will now be allowed and revised description of the longbow has been approved
- The motion to offer national bowls for a fee to authorized archers was withdrawn.
- There are no action on the motion to make x-ring count as a point for all shooters
- The current age limits for Seniors, Silver Senior and Master Seniors were all upheld.
- The motion to eliminate the Certified Instructor Program was passed. The NFAA will present a proposal to USA Archery for a consolidated advanced level certification program.
- Congratulations to all the Missouri Bow Hunter that participated in The Vegas Shoot. Over 2,200 shooters from 40 countries participated this year...making it the largest archery tournament in the world.

God Bless!
Kathy

LARGE AND SMALL GAME COMMITTEE

24. Dan Jasa, Ballwin, 100 lb. Doe, killed on 9/15/13 with a 35 yard shot in Lincoln Co. #5

25. Tom "Big Bird" Ciak, Maryville, 180 lb. 8 point Buck, taken on 9/25/13, 12 yard shot in Nodaway Co #15 as an MBH member. Tom used a flint knapped rock broadhead on a carbon arrow shot from his 60# Mathews bow. The shot resulted in a complete pass through and a great trophy for Tom.

26. Jim Brinkmann, Labadie, Hen Turkey, killed on 10/5/13 at 7:00 am with a 12 yard shot in Warren Co. Jim used his archery gear during shotgun season to tag this bird.

27. Jim Brinkmann, Labadie, 102 lb. Doe taken on 10/6/13 in the evening with a 25 yard shot in Franklin Co.

28. Kathy Brinkmann, Labadie, 140 lb. Doe (Wow that's a big'in!) harvested on 10/8/13 with a 19 yard shot In Warren Co.

29. Jack Davis, Camdenton, 167 lb. 9 point Buck, harvested on 10/17/13 at 9:35 am in Morgan Co. Jack made a 14 yard shot and commented that it was the 4th buck he had seen that morning. Archery deer #57 all time.

30. Jack Davis, Camdenton, 82 lb. Doe, killed on 10/22/13 at 6:10 pm with a 15 yard shot in Morgan Co. #58.

31. Jack Davis, Camdenton, Button Buck, killed on 10/22/13 with a 15 yard shot in Morgan Co. #59 all time.

32 Kathy Brinkmann, Labadie, 98 lb. Doe harvested on 10/23/13 with a 15 yard shot in Franklin Co.

33. Jim Brinkmann, Labadie, Hen Turkey, killed on 12/7/13 at 3:00 pm with a 12 yard shot in St Charles Co.

34. Jim Brinkmann, Labadie, Hen Turkey, killed on 12/7/13 at 3:01 pm with a 12 yard shot in St Charles Co.

35. Jim Brinkmann, Labadie, 62 lb. Doe, killed the evening of 12/21/13 with a 17 yard shot in Franklin Co. Congratulations to Jim for completing his Grand Slam this year!

36. Kathy Brinkmann, Labadie, 60 lb. Doe harvested on 1/1/14 at 4:15 pm in Franklin Co.

37. Allen Boesch, Rolla, 132 lb. 8 point Buck at 23 yards, shot at 5:00 pm on 1/8/14 in Perry Co. #66. This is Allen's 6th deer for the season to go along with two turkeys. Allen said it was quite a thrill following the Buck's blood trail in the snow that evening. Allen spent over 200 hours this past season on stand and he calculated he seen 2.3 does for ever buck seen while on stand. The note Allen wrote to me also said that his trail cameras are still getting photos of some big bucks that made is through this season and he is looking forward to next year's hunt!

38. Jeff Friedmann, Eureka, 185 lb. 7 point Buck, Jeff says in all he harvested 6 deer this season, more info will be posted when I get it.

39. Monica Friedmann, Eureka, 74 lb. Button Buck, killed on 1/12/14 with a 14 yard shot in Franklin Co. Congratulations Monica on your first archery harvest!

A short summery of my season goes like this; I harvested 3 does and one turkey all in Jackson Co. and all inside the Kansas City, city limits. I chose to let a couple of more does walk by at my hunting spot in Hickory Co.

I also managed to blow an opportunity at a great 8 point buck in Hickory Co. I had that big guy dead to rights at 30 yards and missed him just over his back when he ducked my arrow! I almost cried over that screw up!

Happy Bow Hunting, Jeff Blystone
