President's Message

During the month of May we celebrate two events; the first being Mothers Day, so I hope all the mothers enjoy and have a great day. The biggest gift you could give your mother on this day is a big hug and an "I love you". Second is Memorial Day, when we give thanks to those who gave it all for this country and our freedoms.

By the time you receive this the MBH 600 will be in the record books. There are photos and results from the event in this Release. Also coming up is the MBH State outdoor Championships, that will be held at the Springfield Archery Complex.

In this months Release there is an article from Jeff Blystone about MBH. Jeff did a great job in writing this article. Be sure to read it and pass it around to other bowhunters that might not be aware of MBH and what we stand for.

Please share copy of the Release to someone who may not have access to a computer or a possible new member.

LARGE & SMALL GAME COMMITTEE

The second weekend in April found me in Omaha Nebraska for the Pope and Young Club 31st Biennial Convention. Every odd numbered year The Pope and Young celebrates the previous two year recording period by having a four day get together where every bowhunter can enjoy viewing the top trophies of the last two years, attend lots of seminars about everything from camp cooking to DIY Alaska bowhunting, talk with the industries top gear vendors and outfitters from all over the world, and enjoy the evening banquet dinners while catching up with old friends or meeting new friend that enjoy hunting and traveling to new adventures. There are always great silent and live auctions that help to raise money for Pope and Young Club Conservation efforts and youth recruitment into bowhunting as well.

I ran into a few Missouri Bowhunter members attending this year like Dick Wood and Tim Donnelly. I also talked with several folks from Missouri who are not members of MBH. When I asked them why most answered that they either didn't know about MBH or they wanted to know if they joined what benefits did they get for their membership. I tried to give my viewpoint that they should be asking not what MBH can do for me but what I can do for MBH! Sadly that mindset seems to have faded over the last 25 years. Bowhunters no longer have to fight for exclusive seasons or affordable game tags, at least in Missouri that is. The time will come when we will need to fight for our bowhunting rights again and hopefully when that time comes MBH will still be around. I also need to mention that I did see and talk with some Missouri bowhunters that are members of the United Bowhunters of Missouri. UBM is also a great organization in our state working for bowhunting traditions, seasons, and recruitment.

The highlights of my P&Y convention week had to be viewing the 5 New World Bowhunting Records, getting to meet and talk with legendary Bowhunter MR James and winning a couple of ribbons for my photos. New World Records for Alaska Brown Bear, Typical and Non-Typical Mule Deer, Bighorn Sheep, and Non-typical Coues' Deer were all on display and they were spectacular looking critters. At the awards banquet on Saturday night we got to hear the bowhunters stories of each honored animal. The stories were read and introduced by another bowhunting legend Mr. Tom Miranda. Being able to break bread, meet and actually sit down and talk to the who's who of bowhunting in North America is what's special about these conventions and I hope to attend many more.

Jim Brinkmann's Grand Slam

In April of 2019 longtime MBH member Jim Brinkmann completed his National Wild Turkey Federation Grand Slam with a Bow by killing a Rio Grande Turkey in South Central Kansas!

Jim is a true bowhunting turkey fanatic. Jim has turkey kill reports on file with MBH proving since 2007 Jim had killed 53 Missouri turkeys. I know you can add at least 3 more to that total if you count his Osceola, Merriam, & Rio birds. Jim is already on the board for his spring Missouri bird as well by arrowing a bird on the second day of Missouri's 2019 spring season. Congratulations Jim!

CONSERVATION COMMITTEE REPORT

LISTEN UP PEOPLE! My annual plea to support Archery Hunting in Missouri.

Since our founding in September of 1947 by leaders like Paul Jefferies and Earl Hoyt the Missouri Bow Hunters Association has been working to promote archery and the sport of bowhunting in Missouri. For over past 70 years now MBH has worked for the Missouri Bow Hunter. We have been involved with the Missouri Department of Conservation & the Conservation Federation of Missouri to establish seasons, limits, and provided volumes of data to help manage our great outdoor resources. Conservation is defined as the wise use of a resource. So the next time you are deciding if the Missouri Bow Hunters is an organization you want to belong to, just remember where we started and how far we've come. In November of 1946 Missouri had its first archery season that season was two days long; the license cost was $3.15 which allowed you to take 1 buck plus they were competing with the gun hunters who were hunting the same season.

In 2018 a resident archery tag costs $17, you could harvest 2 deer and 2 turkeys of either sex, and the archery only season lasts 4 months. There were 50 different manage deer hunts you could apply for plus lots of Urban deer hunts allowed for archery only hunters. Last year there were about 200,000 archery hunters harvested over 50,000 deer. While it's true that we have earned our place in Missouri's archery and deer hunting history it is also true that there are people and organizations that would like to limit or take away our hunting privileges. Deer hunting is also facing several other important challenges like Chronic Wasting Disease, poaching, and the impact crossbow hunters are having on the archery season. The annual cost of being an MBH member is $25 for a single or $30 for a family. A three pack of broadheads costs more than that. Frankly membership to the Missouri Bow Hunters Association is down and continues to decline. If you enjoy archery hunting you really should consider joining MBH. This organization is only as strong as its membership. Without a robust MBH membership our voice will not carry much weight with the policy makers at the Missouri Department of Conservation or any other policy maker that may have anti archery hunting motives in mind. Each year I attend several MDC meetings and I am on the Board of Directors as your Affiliate Representative to the Conservation Federation of Missouri (CFM). CFM is the #1 citizen lead conservation organization in the state of Missouri. MBH pays membership dues to CFM as an affiliate organization of CFM. Along with 90 other affiliate organizations that range from bird watchers to trappers to trout fishers to gardeners to canoeist. You can find out more about the Missouri Bow Hunters Association and join at www.mobowhunters.org To learn more about the Conservation Federation of Missouri go to www.confedmo.org

Help to keep Archery Hunting in Missouri strong, join MBH today!

Field Archery

By: Bill Myers

While attending the Missouri Bow Hunters (MBH) 2010 Outdoor Field Championships, the subject of why more shooters did not participate came up. One suggestion was MBH may have several members (i.e. 3-D shooters or bow hunters) who do not know what is involved in field archery. The indoor season came to a close this year with the MBH Indoor Championships held in Linn, Mo. Many of you have already gone out and shot a 3-D course or planning to do so in the near future. Why not try your hand at field archery?

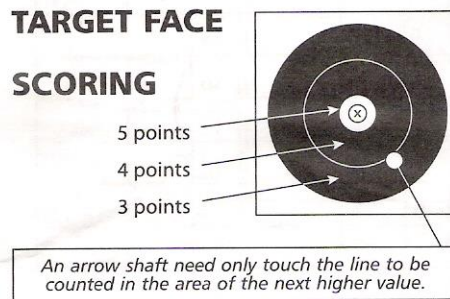

When I first started shooting archery and you joined a local club you were introduced to indoor, field, 2-D (paper animal targets) and bow hunting. This is not necessarily the case today. Most clubs today focus on 3-D archery and bow hunting. So, what is a field round? A field round is not standing out in an open field and shooting at some faraway target. A field round is a challenging course placed in the woods (much like 3-D) with varying terrain, and different distances from target to target. Field rounds are all about shooting proficiently, not yardage estimation. Field rounds can improve a 3-D shooter's proficiency.

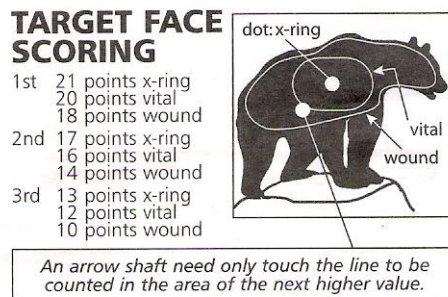

Field courses and 3-D courses have a few basic differences, most notable is field courses have marked yardages. A basic NFAA field round is made up of 28 targets. Targets are black and white faces with a possible 20 points per target and a perfect round of 560. The round is usually made up of two 14 target units. You can have 28 targets one after the other or you can have 14 target course and shoot it twice to make it a full round. Each 14 target unit has the same target distances but not necessarily in the same order. You shoot four (4) arrows at each target for a total of 112 arrows per field round. On a field round you have three basic targets. (1) some shooting positions all four arrows are shot from the same marker; (2) some positions have four markers at different yardages where you shoot one arrow from each as you walk closer to the target (walk-up) and (3) some positions have four markers at the same yardage (side by side) where you shoot one arrow from each (fan). A NFAA field round the closest target is 20 feet and the farthest target is 80 yards. There are four different size target faces, the further the target the bigger the bulls-eye. Now I know what you are saying "80 yards, I don't shoot deer at that distance". Well, neither do I, but it will teach you aim at a spot and make a better archer out of you. Younger archers get a break, if they are under 15, their longest shot is 50 yards; if they are under 12, 30 yards is the longest. Adults and young adults (15 thru 17) shoot at the distances indicated on White Markers; youth (12 thru 14) shoot the white markers up to 50 yards. Any target over 50 yards, youth will shoot Blue Markers. Cubs (under 12) shoot four arrows from the Black Markers.

Other rounds are offered such as the hunter round. The hunter round is like the field round except that you shoot an all black face with a white dot. The distances for a hunter round range from 11 yards to 70 yards. Again, 2 fourteen target units make a round. In a hunter round you have the same type of target (i.e. stationary, walk-up and fan) and once again the further the distance the larger the bulls-eye. Adults and young adults shoot from the red markers; youth shoot the Red Markers up to 50 yards. Any target over 50 yards, youth will shoot the Blue Marker. Cubs shoot 4 arrows from the Black Markers

The animal round is a 2-D round (animals printed on a sheet of paper that is usually pasted to cardboard). Distances are marked to give everyone an equal chance. Scoring for this round is different. You take three arrows and mark them 1, 2, and 3. When you get to the shooting marker (farthest yellow) you shoot one arrow, if you hit the scoring area you need not shoot another arrow. If you miss (or not sure of your hit) move up to the next yellow marker and shoot arrow #2. Once again if you hit the scoring area you need not shoot another arrow. If you miss the scoring area on arrow #1 and #2, move up to the next yellow marker and shoot arrow #3. The scoring area is divided into two parts. The vital area and wound area with a dot in the vital area as a bonus. Scoring is based on where you hit with each arrow. First arrow vital is 20 points (dot is 21); first arrow would be 18 points. Second arrow vital is 16 points (dot is 17); second arrow would be 14 points. Third arrow vital is 12 points (dot is 13); third arrow would be 10 points. Adults and young adults shoot the Yellow Markers with indicated distances. Youth shoot Yellow Markers up to 50 yards; any distance over 50 yards youth shoot Blue Markers. Cubs shoot the Black Markers.

Scoring field rounds are identical throughout the US. So no matter where you live you can compare your score, proficiency against anyone shooting in your division and style. You always shoot against your competition whether you prefer release, fingers, or bowhunting equipment.

Want to improve your 3-D scores, try shooting some field rounds.
